

UTSA photo of the day: Rowdy on the run

Share this Story

(Jan. 5, 2016) — It's never too early to start showing that Roadrunner pride. Engineering graduate student Christian Trevino volunteered at the Do-Seum with students from a robotics class taught by Pranav Bhounsule, assistant professor of mechanical engineering. The students taught the children to make Rowdy-shaped paper machines that could race each other down a platform.
